

Productive Worry

Worry only if it produces action.

This is called productive worry.

If you find yourself ruminating (thinking the same thoughts over and over), redirect your thinking towards positive outcomes.

Every worrisome thought is costly to your body.

Remember, most worries never come to be!

Jan R. Markle, M.A.
Biofeedback and Stress Management
<http://www.relaxwithin.com>